

MDF Primed Jambs

Primed MDF jambs offer an attractive price point for paint-grade applications. Materials used in their manufacture produce a uniform, smooth face that is well suited for painting. It is also known to be a stable product, not apt to cup or twist.

A characteristic worth noting with this product, is its tendency to crack where fasteners connect the head jamb in the pre-hanging process. See inset image. This condition is not cause for defecting, as it is structurally sound relating to assembly, handling and installation. Aesthetically, casing will cover. Proceed with normal installation practices, and product is backed by normal warranty.
